

Cotton Crop Estimate 14.2 Million Bales

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department today estimated the 1960 cotton crop at 14,200,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight.

This total was 255,000 bales less than last month's forecast of 14,455,000 bales. It compared with a 10-year average of 13,700,000 bales.

Supplementing the crop will be a reserve and surplus supply of about 7,600,000 bales accumulated from past crops. A large share of this is stored under a government farm price support program.

The yield of cotton per harvested acre was estimated at 442 pounds compared with 450 pounds forecast in October, 462 pounds in 1959, and 345 for the 10-year average.

In an accompanying report, the Census Bureau said 8,423,786 running bales of cotton from this year's crop had been ginned prior to Nov. 1, this compared with 9,718,919 ginned to the same date last year and 7,312,816 for 1958.

The predicted yield per harvested acre and estimated production of cotton by states included:

Arkansas 490 pounds per acre and 1,345,000 bales.

For Arkansas this would be a drop from 1959, when the yield per acre was 568 pounds and the production was 1,544,000 bales.

Both Sides Hopeful for Governorship

By JOE F. KANE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Neither major political party is conceding the other the edge in today's 27 governorship races.

The stakes are big. Victors will not only statehouse patronage but valuable springboards for further political build-ups.

Three incumbent governors are drawing on their statehouse backgrounds today in races for the Senate. They are Delaware's J. Caleb Boggs and West Virginia's Cecil H. Underwood both Republicans, and Iowa's Herschel C. Loveless, a Democrat.

In the states balloting for chief executives, 14 of the governorships are held by Democrats and 13 by Republicans. Eight of the 14 incumbent governors seeking re-election are Democrats, six are Republicans.

Democrats scored a net gain of seven in the last two elections involving governorships.

Contests in Michigan, Illinois and Kansas hold the chief national interest.

G. Mennen Williams is not seeking re-election in Michigan after an unprecedented six consecutive two-year terms. Paul D. Bagwell, a Michigan State University faculty member who made a strong race against Williams two years ago, is the Republican nominee. Lt. Gov. John B. Swainson, who has wide support from organized labor, is the Democratic candidate.

Otto Kerner, a Chicago judge, is given a good chance of nipping the third-term ambitions of Republican Gov. William G. Stratton in Illinois. Stratton became governor in 1952 when Adlai E. Stevenson quit to head the Democratic presidential ticket.

George Docking, who in 1956 became the first Democrat ever to be elected governor of Kansas, is seeking a third two-year term. His GOP opponent is State Atty. Gen. John Anderson. Also running is Prohibitionist J. J. Steele. Four of the governors seeking re-election figured in overruns two years ago. They are Republicans Paul Fanning of Arizona and Christopher Del Sesto of Rhode Island and Democrats John Burroughs of New Mexico and Ralph Hersteth of South Dakota. Governors also are being elected in Arkansas, where Orval E. Faubus is seeking a fourth term; Delaware, Florida, Indiana, Iowa, Maine, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, North Carolina, North Dakota, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

Try to Send Capsule in Space Fails

WASHINGTON (AP) — A space capsule was fired high over the Virginia coast today but failed to separate from its booster rocket, spoiling a test important to the man-in-space program.

The unmanned one-ton project Mercury capsule was launched by means of a 25-foot Little Joe rocket from the Wallops Island Station of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration at 1 a.m.

It reached an altitude of 53,000 feet but the separation mechanism failed and the capsule and spent booster fell together into the Atlantic 13 miles offshore. It was the day's second setback in the space program. A Blue Scout rocket's second stage burned out too soon after launching from Cape Canaveral, Fla., blocking an attempt to hurl a radiation study payload deep into space.

The Wallops Island test was designed as a supreme trial of the vehicle intended to carry man into earth orbiting flight next year. The separation failure cut off the experiment before it reached the stage at which a device for saving a space flier in emergency was to be tried under extreme conditions.

Pollsters Say Kennedy Will Be Elected

NEW YORK (AP) — When the professional pollsters had turned in their final guesses, a majority of them had picked John F. Kennedy over Richard M. Nixon.

The Gallup poll, conducted by George Gallup, director of the American Institute of Public Opinion at Princeton N.J., gave Kennedy 49 per cent of the votes in his final forecast, allotted Nixon 48 per cent. He said three per cent were undecided.

Gallup said that if the undecided voters were ignored, the sampling showed 51 per cent for Kennedy and 49 per cent for Nixon. About a week before the election, Elmo Roper gave Nixon 48 per cent, and Kennedy 44.5 per cent, with 6.5 per cent undecided. But he said analysis of the "undecideds" indicated a slight edge for Kennedy.

After a telegraphic poll during the weekend Roper raised Nixon to 49 per cent, and Kennedy to 47 per cent with 4 per cent still undecided.

Pollster Sam Lubell generalized a "moderate sweep" for Kennedy. In his third and last state-by-state survey, The Associated Press gave Kennedy 197 electoral votes, Nixon 112 and 228 tossups. But the survey found some doubtful states appearing to lean in such a way that Kennedy might get 279 votes, 10 more than needed to win, with Nixon getting 125 and 133 to doubtful to predict.

Other forecasts by electoral vote:

New York Times: Kennedy 244, Nixon 169, unpredictable 184.

United Press International: Kennedy 169, Nixon 124, undecided 244.

Time magazine: Kennedy 305, Nixon 149, undecided 82.

Newsweek magazine: Kennedy 278, Nixon 159, undecided 100.

American Society of Newspaper Editors: Kennedy 209, Nixon 314, three states missing.

U.S. News & World Report: Kennedy 232, Nixon 205, 50 even.

Americans Journey to Polls Today to Pick New President

400,000 Are Expected to Vote in State

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Early voting indicated a possible record total for Arkansas as the state's residents cast their ballots in today's presidential election.

In some parts of north Arkansas rain kept voters from the polls, at least temporarily, but the general pattern over the state was a heavier vote than at corresponding hours in 1956, when the present record total of 400,572 ballots was set.

Heaviest voting usually is in the afternoon, especially in the hours just before poll closing time at 6:30 p.m.

Arkansians voted not only for president but also for state officers—most of them unopposed Democrats—and for or against four referendum measures.

The campaign wound up Monday night with Winthrop Rockefeller plugging for the Republican national ticket and Rep. Dale Alford of Little Rock presenting the Democratic side.

A record 603,795 persons held poll tax receipts and were eligible to vote this time.

Alford, making his first public appearance on behalf of Sen. John F. Kennedy, delivered a hard-hitting speech on a statewide television network Monday night, urging election of the national Democratic ticket.

Rockefeller, in an informal talk on statewide television from his Winrock home, asked support for the national Republican ticket, for Henry M. Britt the GOP candidate for governor, and for L. J. Churchill, a Republican opposing Alford as a write-in candidate.

"The National States Rights party, which has a slate of unpledged presidential electors on the ballot, sought last-minute support in a television address by W.B. Howard a Jonesboro attorney."

Former Gov. Sid McMath took to television to urge defeat of proposed constitutional Amendment 52, a school closing measure and one of three amendments on today's ballot.

Most observers conceded the state to Kennedy on the national level and predicted formal election of Gov. Orval E. Faubus to an unprecedented fourth term despite a vigorous campaign by Britt.

Faubus said Monday that he expected the vote on the three constitutional amendments and an initiated minimum wage law measure to be close but he did not say how he thought it would go.

Alford the only one of the state's six congressmen with opposition was reckoned the victor over Churchill.

There were no contests for other state offices, but some local and district contests plus wet-dry votes

Court Test for Wage Act Is Promised

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Opponents of the proposed minimum wage act said today they will attack the measure in court if it is approved in today's voting.

William W. Leigh of Little Rock, a vice president of the Arkansas Free Enterprise Association, said a law has been found in the bill title and that it is not the same title that recently was approved by the Arkansas Supreme Court.

Leigh said the words "for regulations concerning handicapped workers" were tacked to the title. He said the was "obviously designed to prejudice voters in favor of the act."

Leigh also said that the ballot title indicates overtime shall be paid at the rate of 1 1/2 times the minimum while the text of the act states that the overtime rate shall be 1 1/2 times to employee's regular rate of pay.

"I am confident these discrepancies are sufficient to kill Initiative No. 1," Leigh said.

Frank Cantrell, executive vice president of the State Chamber of Commerce, said an effort probably would be made to prevent certification of the election results if the measures are adopted today.

Candidates Fight Right Down to Wire

BY ARTHUR EDSON
and WILLIAM T. PEACK

WASHINGTON (AP) — American voters were out early and in big numbers today, making their choice between Richard M. Nixon and John F. Kennedy for the next president.

A forenoon spot survey by Associated Press newspapers and bureaus across the country brought reports of long waiting lines at thousands of precincts. Advanced predictions were for a record total of perhaps 67 million ballots.

First trickling reports of how the voting was going quickened spirits of those backing Nixon Republican candidate in New Hampshire and Kansas.

On the other hand, Democrat Kennedy scored in the first straw from Virginia, North Carolina and Minnesota.

As usual, a handful of New Hampshire precincts had their votes all in and counted by daylight. The score: 49 for Nixon and 49 for Kennedy.

Republican hand-quothers rushed out a statement saying Nixon was running 55 per cent stronger than President Eisenhower did in 1956.

In Parsons, Kan., four precincts, incomplete, gave Nixon 71, Kennedy 61, although Democratic candidates for the Senate and governor were running solidly against public opponents.

A Virginia fishing village, which went 3-1 for Eisenhower over Democrat Adlai Stevenson four years ago, reported 70 for Kennedy over Nixon.

And a North Carolina mountain precinct which was solidly Democratic in '56 remained that way with 8 votes for Kennedy.

A little Minnesota precinct gave Kennedy 3, Nixon 0. No comparison with four years ago was available.

In the spot check around the country, there were some of the reports:

Pennsylvania — Record turnout indicated with voting heavy in all sections.

Michigan — Long early lines pointing toward record vote. Rapid movement of lines in Detroit indicated most voters were pulling straight party levers on voting machines.

Illinois — Early voting heavier than in 1956 despite rain.

Missouri — Near record turnout in Democratic St. Louis; some outside points reported big early vote despite chilly rain.

Texas — Long lines waiting when polls opened in all sections.

Indiana — Prospective record vote.

Georgia — Voting so heavy in larger cities that Atlanta sought extra voting machines but found none available.

Ohio — Heavy early vote. State and congressional races, some of them as heated as the presidential contest, will high swell the vote total. Twenty-seven governors, 34 senators and all 437 U.S. representatives are also being elected today.

For months both presidential candidates have been shooting off an unprecedented display of oratorical fireworks.

Yet with the millions of words, often repeated over and over, when the end came each man seemed frantic lest something still remained unsaid.

Nixon put in four hours on television Monday, answering questions phoned in by listeners, and the appeared with President Eisenhower and vice-presidential candidate Henry Cabot Lodge in another 30-minute program.

TV rebuttal to Nixon, plus a last moment appeal in a 30-minute show from Boston.

Some sample quotes:

Nixon (speaking of Kennedy): "He voices his concern for the people, and then advocates a Niagara of spending which would in the end either raise their taxes or prices, or both, and would cheapen their insurance policies, pensions and Social Security."

Kennedy (speaking of Nixon):

Mrs. Harrell Hines has completed his five weeks' basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas and was selected to attend a Radar and Navigator school at Keesler AFB, Biloxi, Miss. He was one of the top four chosen following a series of tests.

Words and gestures—talks and visits—will not bring peace in the future, just as they have failed to bring peace during the last eight years.

Most poll takers give Kennedy a slight edge, but rarely have so many predictions been hedged in so many directions.

The difficulty is simple. Scarcely a one of the 50 states can be rated safely in the bag for either Nixon or Kennedy. Big states like Illinois (27 electoral votes), Michigan (20), Pennsylvania (32) and Texas (24) are tossups.

With 269 electoral votes needed for victory, a slight switch in either direction could upset the most carefully calculated predictions.

Almost lost in the excitement over the presidential race are the contests for governors and for Congress.

Much of the attention in the gubernatorial races will center on Michigan, Kansas and Illinois.

The campaign finale brought a sharp attack from Alford on Republican "hypocrisy" and charges that the national administration had been "sod" on Communism and had forced racial integration.

He also slapped at Rockefeller support on a two party movement, saying, "Arkansas is a Democratic state. Mr. Rockefeller and we intend to keep it that way."

Rockefeller, besides plugging for the Republicans, also urged support for Amendment 60, a municipal financing proposal, and Amendment 51, which would allow pay raises for some public officials.

But he called for defeat of McMath said that Amendment 52, if approved, "will completely destroy the public school system in Arkansas." He said it had very little to do with opposing integration of public schools.

What is the best way to stop my married children from flying off the handle and causing hard feelings between brothers-in-law and sisters-in-law, to say nothing of their mother?

It hurts a mother to see her children do such things. I have told them if they did not stop I would break up housekeeping and find a better part of the world to go to. I was lied on, and lied on big, after I married by some of my in-laws but I didn't go jump on them or make a big fuss. What is best to do; move away now or wait till their Dad retires.—Mrs. J. B. other women before this and I forgave him. I don't know why he left this time though. He is 22. I am 18. We have been married a year. My son and I are living with my parents. What would you do in my case?—Deserted Wife

Dear Helen: I will be 15 soon and would like to have a birthday party. The problem is my mother. I work and will take the responsibility of buying the food and decorations and doing the cleaning. My cousin's birthday falls on the same day as mine. We plan to split expenses. Since we have the same friends there would not be too many guests.

This is where my mother comes in. She doesn't feel I am old enough to date as yet. But I would like to have a few friends in occasionally. In this way she would know who my friends are.

I would like your opinion on whether or not I should be allowed to have the party.—R. P.

Dear Helen: If you are old enough to work and earn your own money, you are old enough to have a party. But—give it in your own home. Tell your mother I think she should help you and your cousin make this a special occasion. It should be fun for all concerned especially if she enters into the spirit of it herself.

Probe Starts of School Bus, Train Crash

NEW YORK (AP)—A grand jury investigation has been ordered in a commuter train-school bus crash which killed a girl and injured 44 other pupils.

The bus jammed with 51 youngsters ranging in age from 5 to 8, was rammed by the train Monday at a Staten Island crossing.

Police said the crossing had been condemned.

"I was blinded by the sun" and couldn't hear the train because of the shouting, laughing children," said the bus driver, Edward Hal-lowell, 40.

The train smashed into the rear section of the bus.

Fatally injured was Caroline Parr, 7.

In critical condition at Richmond Memorial Hospital were Anita Barretto of Joseph Krak-ower, 6, and Louis Davonora, 7. Fifteen other children were hospitalized.

Police said a warning bell and flashing red light were operating at the crossing. The bus stopped then, proceed across the tracks.

The two-car train had eight passengers. None of the passengers was hurt.

More than two billion trees were planted in the United States in 1959.

Porkers Jump to 9th Place Nationally

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The five teams of The Associated Press top 10 who escaped unscathed on "Black Saturday" last week possibly are a little apprehensive today.

If it could happen once—the defeat of five leaders in the weekly poll on "one day"—it could happen again, and several of the clubs in the select circle this week face rugged opposition.

Top-ranking Minnesota, for one, The Golden Gophers meet unranked Purdue, a much better team than its record indicates.

Mississippi, No. 4 now, meets also unranked Tennessee, which last week, before its setback at the hands of Georgia Tech, was a member of the top 10.

Minnesota look over the No. 1 spot by virtue of its decisive 27-10 victory over Iowa, previously the No. 1 team. The Hawkeyes were dropped to fifth place in the voting by a 40-man panel of sports writers and sportscasters taking part in the poll. It was the Gophers' seventh straight victory.

Ohio State jumped from fifth to third by walloping Indiana, and Mississippi climbed from sixth to fourth with an easy victory over Chattanooga.

Three of the top 10 losers last week — Tennessee, Syracuse and Rice — were dropped from the list in this week's voting. Only Iowa and Navy, which lost to Duke in the select circle, Navy is No. 8.

Duke, Arkansas and Auburn replaced the three ousted top 10 members. Washington advanced to No. 6 by whomping Southern California, a victory that practically clinches a Rose Bowl place.

Minnesota received 40 of the first place votes. Unbeaten Missouri, No. 2, received four, and Ohio State, Mississippi and Washington, one each.

One panel member did not vote. The leaders (first place votes in parentheses) points figured on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis:

1. Minnesota (40)
2. Missouri (4)
3. Ohio State (1)
4. Mississippi (1)
5. Iowa
6. Washington (1)
7. Duke
8. Navy
9. Arkansas
10. Auburn

Others receiving votes were: UCLA 38, Pittsburgh 31, Michigan State 16, Tennessee 15, New Mexico State 10, Rice 9, Yale 8, Syracuse 8, Utah State 7, Florida 6, Alabama 3, Texas, Kansas 3, Oregon 2, Michigan 1, Army 1.

THE STORY: In order to support her two sons, Janet Hamilton, a young widow, is attending night school to obtain a teaching certificate. Her instructor is Dr. Jason Whiting. One night in February she returns home feeling very tired and exhausted.

CHAPTER VI

The next day Janet realized it was more than exhaustion she had suffered the night before. Her skin burned, and her head ached. On Thursday she felt worse, but was determined not to miss class. By the time the train halted at Grand Central, she admitted she'd made a mistake. She felt lightheaded and weak. However, her untimely showed this to be one of those hours in the day when there was quite a gap between trains back home. She made her way to school.

"She sensed that class was finished when people shuffled papers, put on coats and stood up. At last she seemed to be alone, and she walked slowly to the door, leaning against it for a moment before starting on."

"Why, Mrs. Hamilton? Are you all right? What is the matter?" Jason Whiting's tall figure loomed over her, his face full of solicitude.

"I don't know Dr. Whiting. I feel a little dizzy. I thought you'd left with the others."

"Just as well I hadn't," he answered. "I'm afraid there's no such thing as a comfortable chair here," he added, looking around the room. "But there's a drug store just around the corner, maybe the air or a cup of coffee or an aspirin." His words trailed off helplessly.

"If you could just find me a taxi..."

"Of course." He piloted her to the front of the building, looked at her white face again and said, "I don't like leaving you in a taxi until I know you're going to be able to get home. Let's try the drugstore. It's only a few steps. Do you think you can make it?"

He took her arm and supported her into the crisp night air. Janet began to feel better and embarrassed at the same time. "I'm terribly sorry to delay you like this. I'm fine now."

"Here's the drugstore. We might as well go in anyway," he said, smiling at her. He's rather attractive-looking when he smiles, Janet thought.

"All right," she answered, and allowed herself to be settled in a booth, acutely uncomfortable that her instructor should have to take charge of an ailing pupil. He walked over the counter and brought back two steaming heavy white mugs. "I don't know what's wrong, but one of these ought to help," he said, placing the coffee before her and holding out two aspirins.

"It's my own fault. I knew before I came into town that I must be getting a virus or something. But I didn't want to miss class..."

"Oh," he began, and stopped, abashed at this seeming devotion. He cleared his throat and began again, more formally. "You come from some distance?"

"It's about an hour and a half away, but it still seems like a major enterprise, even after some weeks."

"I'm glad you're taking the trouble. I hope the course turns out to be worth it," he answered.

"Why are you taking this course, Mrs. Hamilton?" he asked, raising dark searching eyes to hers.

Janet, feeling a little like a soap-opera heroine, explained that she was a widow with two sons to raise and she planned to return to teaching. "It sounds as though you've made a sensible decision," he answered coolly. "Have you worked out a good course schedule?"

"I've started with yours," Janet said, relieved. "But I have no idea what to take next or what I need for a degree."

"We'll have to work out a study plan for you."

Over Janet's protests he saw her to her train, watched her board it and, as it pulled out of the station, he waved goodbye.

She spent the rest of the week in bed, definitely sick, although an aching head and sore bones could not dispel the glow that came with a short note from Dr. Whiting in which he said he hoped she would recover quickly, was sorry she'd had to miss a class and suggested they have another cup of coffee after her return, when he would go over some proposed courses with her.

She kept returning to one sentence in his notes: "It occurred to me after you left that we had met somewhere before..." Janet was puzzled. She was certain she had not met him until she enrolled in his class. She was equally certain that, had she met him previously, she would have remembered the meeting. Re-
